

THIS DOG IS NOT THE ONLY THING THAT WILL NEED AN EFFECTIVE COLLAR TO PROTECT US.

Climate legislation must significantly reduce greenhouse gas emissions. It must also include effective consumer protections that will reduce price increases for consumers and help avoid harm to U.S. industry and our economy.

The right “collar” on the price of emissions allowances can help to do just that—with a moderate price floor and a moderate price ceiling that will help to protect consumers from the possibility of dramatic price increases and the economy from price volatility. We believe that an effective price collar should be a provision of any climate legislation going forward.

To learn more about the price collar and other consumer protections that should be a part of climate legislation, visit SmartClimatePolicy.org.

SmartClimatePolicy.org